The Brunswick County Sheriff's Office recently hosted a Crisis Intervention Training consisting of 25 officers. Officers traveled from New Hanover and throughout Brunswick County to attend the 40 hours training, both in the classroom and in the field.

CIT Training facilitates ongoing collaboration between law enforcement and the mental health community. The training advances our supervising officers' knowledge of how to react to various situations they can encounter on a daily basis. Sheriff Ingram's goal is to have every deputy with the department receive this training.
